General Comment

Remove this rule from your docket. I don't require nor desire your supposed protections provided by this regulation nor any other meddling with my relationship with my broker. I am educated on executing options within my IRA and it provides an excellent source of income for my account which would be hindered by this rule. Without the benefit of options trading, my investments would be in much greater risk. Options trading reduces this risk while providing additional income. I don't believe you have sufficient evidence to the contrary. I spent lots of time preparing / learning these techniques just for such purpose.
